Our first attraction is the Reunification Palace. This was the residence and working place of the President of the Republic of Vietnam in the past. The site welcomes many heads of state and high-ranking officials of the countries to visit.

The War Remnants Museum, which represents important war events in history, maintains more than 20,000 pieces of evidence, including documentation, objects, and films, relating to crimes and the repercussions of conflicts inflicted by invading armies in Vietnam.

A site that has historical significance and marks Saigon's development in the past as a modern European urban area is the City Post Office. This place is one of the most famous and iconic attractions in Ho Chi Minh City.

To complete the city tour, pay a visit to Chinatown and Ben Thanh Market, where you can witness the dynamic of local life and try your bargaining skills to buy some souvenirs.
